Site Review Notes

Jeff Su (464904)

Stephen Curry Website designed and coded by Bob Zhao

Content
The information and tone on the main page is on point. Everything tends to glorify his career which is what we'd want for this type of site. It doesn't spend too much time dwelling on unimportant aspects of his career/life and focuses on his impact. I think I would add a page or two with just a bit more information, but definitely not as in-depth as the home page already is.

Structure and Aesthetic
I think the new presentation is great and emphasizes the correct content with the correct tone. I still think there is room to make the page a bit darker, but it's still great all-around.

Navigation
I think there is room to add to the blue navigation bar with some navigation links or a "logo" (could just be his name). It is sticky so I think some sort of navigation content would help.

Responsiveness
The website seems pretty responsive and scales relatively well. I think the font gets a little small when scaled to mobile (but that might just be my browser/ screen size on my Mac).